

Because Morse Code is the foundation of radio communications, and is auseful and perhaps necessary skill in emergency situations, anything which reduces the desire of Amateur Licensees to obtain this skill is detrimental to the Amateur service. In this case, granting additional privileges to persons not proficient in Morse Code is a disincentive to the acquisition of this skill.

I therefore oppose the adoption of this proceeding.